

Student B journal excerpt:

The opportunity for one-on-one sessions with students had aspects of both tutoring and teaching. We [KU students] were able to work with high school students in personable ways to improve their writing. Simultaneously, we were able to instruct them on particular writing techniques and tactics.