Grading Rubric
Urban Issue Research Paper
PUAD 825

A

- The author has accurately addressed the most significant issues and points in the literature on the topic.
- There are enough credible sources giving the reader confidence that the author has an excellent understanding of the subject.
- The author has a message that is easy for the reader to understand, and the author clearly leads the reader to an understanding of the topic.
- There is a beginning, middle, and conclusions.
- The paper can easily be outlined for logic.

B papers meet these criteria but with less completeness in the research and/or less clarity in the writing.

C papers show inadequate or incomplete understanding of the topic, and/or they are written in a way that definitely detracts from the reader’s understanding of what the author is trying to convey. Often, a C paper gives tangential issues greater importance than the standard literature warrants.
